Dear Sirs,

RE: CardCall Pty Ltd & Shane Dowling

We refer to our letter to you of 13 May, 2005.

In that letter we pointed out that your client had been warned in writing that if he makes any further comment to retailers/employees regarding health risks posed by the flags, his employment would be summarily terminated.

Over the weekend he has done this – see attached.

This letter, and a copy of it which our client proposes to give to your client, serves as notice of termination of employment effective immediately.

Your client will hear direct from our client as to the return of our client's property, and other tidy up matters.

We put you on notice that our client expressly reserves all rights in relation to the attached, and your client's conduct generally. Defamatory comments, any loss of business due to what will prove to be unfounded comment, will be the subject of appropriate legal action.

Yours faithfully,

JONATHON HASSETT
