Dear Mr Dowling

I refer to your email below which has been referred to me for reply.

Neither Seven, its directors or lawyers intend to respond to misinformed and ill-judged allegations. We reject the suggestion of any improper conduct and suggest you refrain from doing otherwise. As a matter of fairness, you are suggesting people are involved in a matter or investigation who are simply not so involved.

Finally, which lawyers the Seven Network takes advice from is confidential and privileged and a matter solely for them.

Regards

Richard Keegan | Special Counsel

Subject: Channel 7 journalist Rodney Lohse sexually harassed Amy Taeuber. Seven's News Director Graham Archer covered it up.

Dear Mr McWilliam, Mr Parker, Mr Kerry Stokes, Mr Ryan Stokes and Ms McGregor

I have further information in regards to the sexual harassment cover-up by Channel 7 in Adelaide. Please answer the following questions.

1. Can you confirm that Amy Taeuber made a sexual harassment complaint about Rodney Lohse to Graham Archer?
2. Can you confirm that Graham Archer was the decision maker in deciding to sack Amy Taeuber last week or was the decision taken higher up at Seven?
3. Can you please name the lawyers that were advising Channel Seven on the Taeuber's constructive dismissal and termination or was this decided by Channel Seven management without legal advice?

I would send this email you your lawyers but they don't respond anymore as per the last email I sent to Addisons Lawyer Richard Keegan which is attached for your reference. I find that odd as I sent it to most of the firm as well and when I sent letters to the directors of Seven West Media and Seven Group Holdings Richard Keegan emailed me saying not to contact the directors again and email him any correspondence as per the attached email. Maybe Richard Keegan has a drug or alcohol problem?

The positive is that Richard Keegan confirmed that the directors did get the letters and are therefore aware of the corruption going on at Seven but have done nothing.

I plan on publishing either late Monday or Tuesday Night so can you please respond ASAP as I may have follow-up questions?

Regards

Shane Dowling
