Hello @Kangaroo_Court,

In the interest of transparency, we are writing to inform you that Twitter received a concerns notice from Kennedys Law regarding your Twitter account, @Kangaroo_Court, that claims the following content violates the law(s) of Australia:

https://twitter.com/Kangaroo\_Court/status/1548777122436509696?s=10&t=eRSPN97fvHuVFGLtRA0igA

In order to comply with Twitter's obligations under Australia's local laws, we have withheld this content in Australia; the content remains available elsewhere. For more information about our Country Withheld Content policy, please see this page:

<https://support.twitter.com/articles/20169222>.

As Twitter strongly believes in defending and respecting the voice of our users, it is our policy to notify our users if we receive a legal request to remove content from their account. We provide notice whether or not the user lives in the country where the request originated. This help page provides more information:

<https://help.twitter.com/en/rules-and-policies/defending-and-respecting-our-users-voice>

When we take action on legal removal requests, and as long as the request does not prohibit us from doing so, we also notify Lumen (<https://lumendatabase.org>), an independent, third-party research project studying and publishing such requests.

We understand that receiving this type of notice can be an unsettling experience. While Twitter is not able to provide legal advice, we want you to have an opportunity to evaluate the request and, if you wish, take appropriate action to protect your interests. This may include seeking legal counsel and challenging the request in court, contacting relevant civil society organizations, voluntarily deleting the content (if applicable), or finding some other resolution. For more information on legal requests Twitter receives worldwide, please refer to this article on our Help Center, as well as our biannual Transparency Report:
